Sustainable supply chain success in the Middle East

CIPS Middle East Conference 2014

The Middle East has big ambitions to become a global leader in sustainability. But these goals cannot be achieved without robust supply chains, built to withstand the unpredictability of today's global economy.

By attending the 2014 CIPS Middle East Conference you can find out how procurement and supply chain professionals can develop the strong foundations necessary for a healthy supply chain, and identify what opportunities and challenges the Middle East faces as a region trying to reach this aim.

Why attend?

- You will get the chance to hear renowned speakers discuss the biggest issues facing procurement and supply chain professionals
- You can attend expert-led practical workshops to upgrade your professional skills on a number of topics
- Take the opportunity to network with peers and develop invaluable contacts

Celebrating excellence in procurement and supply

CIPS Middle East Awards 2014

A CIPS Award is the most prestigious recognition a company or individual in the procurement and supply chain profession can receive. And, as well as being celebrated for your hard work and achievements, the Awards ceremony itself provides the perfect opportunity to network with peers from across the industry.

Join the celebration and book your table at the CIPS Middle East Awards and for your opportunity to support your peers, celebrate industry excellence and enhance your professional profile.
